Berlin, June 26.

Lieutenant-General Baron Späer, seeing all the Endeavours used to engage the King of Prussia to declare against the Enemies of Sweden and oppose them with his Forces, are useless, is preparing to go to the Court of Vienna to make like Essays there. The said Baron proposed in the last Conference he had with the Ministers here, that if his Prussian Majesty would not act immediately and in Concert with the Swedes and their Friends against the Northern Allies, it was desired of him only to lend his Troops to Sweden for sufficient Subsidies, by which he would be covered from the Czar's Resentment, seeing Denmark did the same thing during the two last Wars against France, in which that Crown lent considerable Bodies of Men to England and Holland, yet France did not take it for a Rupture, but always treated Denmark as a neutral Potentate. But he was answered, that the Case is very different in many Respects, and (to cut the Matter short) that 'tis not by any Means convenient for his Prussian Majesty to intermeddle in an Affair of this Nature, while the present Conjuncture obliges him to look vigilantly to certain Interests which he has much more at Heart, and prefers to all other Concerns. Brigadier Britton, Envoy extraordinary from her Britannick Majesty to this Court, is preparing to leave it, in order to return to England.

Hague, July 6. The Earl of Strafford having renewed his Instances to the States-General, to induce them to use joyned Efforts for prevailing with the Northern Allies to accept the Cessation of Arms which Sweden proposed some time since, the Deputies of their High Mightinesses have had a Conference with the Ministers of the Northern Allies, in which they left nothing unsaid that might serve to persuade those Ministers to consent to the Cessation, as a Means the most expeditious and the most agreeable to the neutral Potentates for quieting the Troubles of the North and restoring the Freedom of Commerce, in which the maritime Potentates, as well as the Parties at War, are so much interested. The said Ministers answered, That not having any Order to treat upon what was proposed to them, they could do no more than report the Proposition to their Principals and wait their Instructions. People here are of Opinion, that before these Ministers, and particularly Prince Kurakin, can have the Resolutions of their Courts hereupon, the Blow that may decide the Campaign will be struck: And that in the mean while the States-General are the more disposed to redouble their Offices in favour of Sweden, because the Continuance of the War does more and more interrupt their Commerce in the Baltick; for now the Swedish Men of War and Privateers intercept and seize without Distinction all Ships bound to Peteribourg and the Ports of Livonia, English as well as Dutch, which they do with Design the most to engage the two maritime Potentates to procure for them, by one Means or other, a Suspension of Arms. The Congress at Brunswick is in a languid State, nothing material having hitherto been treated there, and the French and British Ministers labouring incessantly to get it transferred to another Place. The Count Flemming and Wackerbart have left Brunswick, but first delivered to the Emperor's Minister a Memorial touching the Reimbursement which the King their Master demands of Sweden; according to that Memorial the Contributions and Exactions which the Swedes drew from the Saxons, during their Stay in that Country, amount to 23 Millions of Crowns.

Dr. Stoughton's Great Cordial Elixir for all In-dispositions of the Stomach and Blood, the only Specific for the Scurvy, and all its Attendants, that ever was made, now famous throughout Europe, and sold in most Cities and great Towns thereof by some one Merchant or Trader. 'Tis the greatest Preservative from infectious Air or contagious Diseases in the World, keeping the Body in a due State of Health and Vigour, as hath been largely experienced in the West-Indies some time ago, and lately at Sweden, where it was observed that hardly any one who took it had the Disease, and few now travel by Land or Sea without it. 'Tis not purging, but cordial only; the best and most agreeable Nixter in the World; and most Gentlemen drink it in Wine instead of any other, Ladies in Tea, and others in Beer, Ale, &c. Prepared only by him at his House in Bartholomew-lane, near the Royal Exchange, London, having obtained Her Majesty's most gracious Letters Patents for the sole making thereof. Those Merchants, Captains of Ships, and others, who will send or take with them any considerable Quantity abroad, shall have Room for large Profit, it selling at a good Price, is well known, and highly esteemed of in most Places of Europe. It is so great a Cleanser of the Blood, that hundreds have been cured of Agues and Cholicks by this Elixir only, taken as the Bills direct, which are now in French, Dutch and Spanish, as well as English: And 'tis desired they may be carefully read over and observed.
